of my power to give further indulgence. With feelings of regret, I am forced to make this bold

The Columbian Magazine. 1845.

EDITED BY JOHN INMAN AND ROBERT A. WEST.

Prospectus for the Fourth Volume.

THE reception which each succeeding volume of the Columbian Lady's and Gentleman's Magazine has met with, has been so flattering, that the publisher's greeting to his patrons at the commencement of another volume, differs from former salutations, only in the fervency of his acknowledgments of their favors. His is, indeed, a most grateful task, a most agreeable duty. He has to speak of success, and of success alone. From its establishment, in January, 1844, the Columbian Magazine has been favored with patronage perhaps unexampled in the early history of any monthly periodical. Its earliest numbers obtained for it a high reputation, and it has known no reverses, but under a constantly increasing patronage, it has reached a proud position, which it will be the publisher's aim to retain. It is now demonstrated that New York can and will sustain a well-conducted magazine of general literature.

The publisher believes that he rightly estimates the causes of the popularity which his magazine has reached. He did not attempt its establishment without first consulting the cost, and he confidently appeals to the former volumes as evidence, that in embellishments and in all things pertaining to the publisher's province he has not been chary of expenditure. To this liberality on his part he believes he may attribute, in some degree, the extensive patronage and favor that have been awarded to the Columbian. This course he will continue to pursue. In this respect, the Columbian shall continue to outvie all competition. Our engravings and music shall certainly not be surpassed in merit by those of any other magazine. Our fashion plate will always be authentic.

The publisher was fortunate also in securing the editorial services of a gentleman whose reputation ensured the confidence both of contributors and readers. That gentleman has given abundant evidence of the highest ability to put forth a truly popular magazine. With him, at the commencement of the third volume, was associated, in the editorial charge of the Columbian, a gentleman well qualified by his ability and experience for the successful discharge of that duty. Arrangements therefore, have every confidence that what has already been done for the literary value of the magazine, will continue to be done, and that this group of its popularity will be in no wise diminished.

To the list of those who have furnished articles for the Columbian, the publisher refers with heartfelt satisfaction, as an assurance that no exertions or expense have been spared to secure the best writers.

The following distinguished ladies and gentlemen are among the many whose valuable services have heretofore been enlisted in the enterprise.
Mrs. L. H. Sigourney, Ann S. Stephens, F. S. Osgood, Mary E. Hewitt, E. O. Smith, E. F. Elliott, M.
Steele, Louisa M. Child, E. C. Emory, E. R. Steele, A. C.
Merritt, M. A. Erving, James G. Brooks, M. P. Hunt, and G. H. Butler.

Miss Emily E. Chubbuck, Fanny Forester, Mary L. Lawson, Colman, E. H. Dupuy, Augusta Brown, Ellen Darby, R. J. De Grove, F. E. F., Author of Summer Frolics; Martha Russell, John B. Brauer, M. G. Quincy, Cary, Isabel Jocelyn, Mary Florence Noble, Ann Sloman, and Jane G.
Hopkins.

Mr. J. K. Paulding, Fitz Greene Halleck, John
Neal, H. Hastings Weld, T. S. Arthur, C. Fenuo
Hoffman, G. W. Kendall, H. S. Scholcraft, James F. Ous, S. D. Patterson, E. S. Gould, C. Donald Mc-Leod, W. H. Wells, John Burthar, Henry B.
Hirst, Isaac F. Shepard, Wm. Oland Bourne, H.
A. Clark, Augustus Snodgrass, Joseph H. Butler,
C. Wilkins, E. P. Parry, M. C. Hill, J. Q. A.
Wood, the author of "Time's Doings," Owen G.
Warren, B. F. French, S. B. Porter, James P. Jett,
the author of the "Widow of Bruges," John Inman, Wm. C. Bryant, Edgar A. Poe, Henry W. Herbert,
Park Benjamin, H. T. Tuckerman, Theo. S. Fay,
H. P. Grattan, William Cox, M. Hardu Andrews, R. L. Wier, Selma Smith, Rev. Francis M. Woodworth, Joseph Broughton, Walter Whitman, T. B.
Read, Rich. G. White, William Russell, Jr., Rev.
George A. Noble, Lawrence Labree, Ed. J. Porter,
H. Myers, M. E. Wilson, C. McLachlan, A. M. Ide, Jr., J. T. Headley, F. L. Hagadorn, W. Gilmarin, E.
C. Hawley, Jerome A. Maybrie, John Brougham, Herrman S. Saroni, and Robert A. West.

With the aid of these contributors (of whom it is needless to say one word in commendation) and of numerous others, perhaps equally meritorious if less celebrated, who have promised their support, the publisher flatters himself that, as a literary work, the Columbian need be under no apprehension of being excelled.

The publisher enters upon a new volume, therefore, with expectations of increased patronage.—
He has every reason for indulging such expectations. Increased exertions will be made to deserve it in each department of the work. Arrangements are already made for a series of Reports, mezzotint and line engravings—music most sweet, in preparation—literary articles of superior merit are already bespoke—critical notices of every new publication will be given in each number—and the present volume of the Columbian shall evince the publisher's grateful appreciation of the public favor already shown him. The heavy postage tax, so injurious to the mail distribution of periodicals, is removed, and the postage per copy of this magazine will in future be only 43 cents to any part of the United States. The Columbian contains nearly as much reading matter in a year as a common-sized newspaper—all original—and at much less than the price of papers: so that our highly finished engravings, fashion-plates and music, are equivalent to a gratuity, inviting subscription.

Dealers in Periodicals throughout the United States and the Canada, who wish to become agents for the Columbian Magazine, will please apply to the publisher immediately. The usual discount will be made to them.

INFORMATION WANTED.—FRANCIS
JONES, recently died in the Parish of Ber-ville, Louisiana, leaving no heirs of his body in that State. He left considerable property, and the object of this publication is to ascertain who are entitled to the succession fund: who are his heirs. It is supposed that Mr. Jones was a native of Wilmington, N. C., and that he removed from this place in boyhood, leaving behind him parents, brothers and sisters. He died at an advanced age, and of course must have been a long while absent from this place. This is a matter of importance to the heirs of the deceased Mr. Jones, as he left considerable property. Those who may possess any information on the subject will please call on the subscriber. DAVID FULTON.

OUR FATHER.

From the Columbian Magazine.
BY L. E. SIGOURNEY.
Our Father! At that hallow'd name
The mist of buried years divide,
Life's morning star returns its flame,
And memory's portal opens wide.

We see the brook, whose bordered edge
The water-cress and violet lined,
The old gray rocks whose towering ledge
Was with a thousand legends twined.

Our Father! He our tottering feet Forth in our infant wonder led,
Amid the warblers' warbling sweet,
Or 'neath the emerald mountain's head.

The wisdom high, or goodness meek,
From stream, or flower, or stone could bring,
And make the falling acorn speak,
Some message from Creation's King.

The freeds glow'd—and o'er the wall,
Fantastic shadows lightly fit,
While loving, and beloved by all
In childhood on his knee we sit.

Hand clasped in hand, and brow to brow,
We list of ancient days the lore,
Or feel the kindling spirit hove,
Before the mighty chiefs of yore.

She too was near, without whose smile,
Each heartfelt joy was incomplete,
The mother dear, who breathed the while
The hymn that made our sleep so sweet.

Our Father! At that image wake
The power that curb'd the wayward will,
The love that sought the sway to break
Of outward foe and inward ill.

The blushing fault that shrank away
Before those features fixed and grave,
The approving glance, whose sunny ray
New life to every virtue gave.

Our Father! Change o'er spreads the scene!
The fluttering form, some prop doth seek,
For playing years have stolen between
And deeply furrow'd brow and cheek.

The watcher's lamp at midnight streams,
And soon a sad funeral throng,
Beneath the summer's lingering beams
To the green church-yard pass along.

There, side by side, in beds of dust
Which budding wreaths of spring adorn,
The guardians of our earliest trust
Await the resurrection-morn.

And there, while tenderest memories swell,
And high the filial sorrows rise,
The spirit from its inmost cell
Invokes a Father in the skies;—

He, who supreme o'er Nature's laws
Unchanging holds His throne on high,
And nearer to his children draws
When earthly kindred droop and die.

THE THREE SISTERS.
AN INSTRUCTIVE LITTLE STORY.

There was a good father who had three daughters, all very different from each other.
Their names were Harriet, Lucy and Jane. They were already grown, and their father, to see if they would make good use of their riches, gave to each a particular sum of money, with which they were to pay their waiting maids, give in charity, and purchase their clothes and necessary ornaments.

Harriet took great care to pay her maid's wages every three months, and when she bought anything, she counted the cost and paid immediately; and when she thought she had wronged any one, she was always ready to repair it. One day she went with her sisters to the shop of a fashionable merchant. Wishing to look at a bonnet, and while trying to reach one, she threw down a band-box, and upset an inkstand on some yards of lace that happened to be there.

'It is just that I should pay for this lace,' said she to the merchant, and immediately paid him the price.

Jane chose some ribands and some lace for a mantilla, and told the merchant that she would pay another time. Lucy bought nothing. Returning home, the two sisters asked her why she did not send home the bonnet which she needed.

'Because I have resolved to make it myself,' replied she.

'Then you have become very avaricious,' said Jane.

'I am not so unhappy as that,' said Lucy,
'but I saw this morning my waiting maid very much afflicted, and when I asked her why she wept, she answered—

'My mother is poor, and is now unable to work, from sickness, and it is this which makes me sad.' 'Very well, my child,' said I to her, 'take this money to your mother—it was what I laid aside to buy my bonnet with—and if you can help her in her work, do it while in the meantime I will occupy myself with a part of the work you have been accustomed to do for me.' I tell you this, my dear Harriet, for I saw that after paying for the lace, there was a good deal of money in your purse.

As for myself, I have not enough to furnish this poor woman all she needs. I have been used to see her, and I know she wants many things.

'I am sorry,' said Harriet, 'but it does not concern me at all; this woman has never done anything for me, and I do not think I am obliged to assist her.'

'Well, then, I must help her,' said Jane.
'Oh, it is a bad heart that does not love to give to the poor! Here, my dear Lucy, send her these three dollars.'

'But perhaps it is more than you can afford to give,' said Lucy, affectionately.
'No, no—let me do it,' said Jane.

At the end of the year, the father said to his daughters that he would like to know how they had spent their money, and that the next day they must bring to him an account of their expenses. In the morning, however, Jane's waiting-maid came complaining to her father that she had received no wages, and that when she asked her mistress, she replied that she had no money, so that at last she had come to ask for her dismissal. A moment after, a merchant came in.

'Your oldest daughters,' said he, 'paid me very exactly, but it is not so with the other. I have furnished Miss Jane with feathers, and have received no money.'

Another merchant came in with a similar complaint.

'I have sold,' said he, 'some beautiful articles to Miss Jane, and have never been paid.'

'The father sent both of them away satisfied, and then told his three daughters to come to his library.

'Tell me, my child,' said he to Harriet,
'how have you employed your money?'

'Father,' replied Harriet, 'I beg you to cast your eyes over this book, where I have marked my expenses.'

'Very well, my child, I see you have paid exactly all your debts; but why have you not put down in writing all the money that you have given in charity?'

'Why, father,' said Harriet, a little embarrassed, 'I have hardly given anything, but I have still some money left.'

'Oh, father!' interrupted Jane, 'you will be more pleased with me than with Harriet, for I gave to all the poor who asked me, all the money I had.'

'Well, how have you done to pay your debts?'

'Oh, father, I thought I would pay them another year.'

'And you, Lucy, what use have you made of the sum I gave you?'

'I have employed a part of it in paying my waiting-maid, and in purchases I have been obliged to make, and the rest in giving to the poor.'

'Then,' said the father, 'Lucy is the only one who has met my wishes. You, Harriet, have fulfilled the first of all duties, that of giving to each what is their due—but to be good it is not enough only to be just; we must also do to others all the good that we can. You, Jane, have forgotten that you must be just before you are charitable, and that in doing good we must not forget to make those who are living with us happy. You have given alms to the poor whom you did not know, and at the same time you have caused your waiting-maid much sorrow, and she does not wish to stay in your service any longer. I have paid your debts, but to punish your injustice, you can receive no more money for three months, to deprive you of the pleasure of giving to the poor. As for you, Harriet, the money you have left is lying useless; since it is no pleasure for you to do good to others, hand it to Lucy; she deserves to be rich, since at the same time she is JUST and CHARITABLE.'

A CASE OF CONSCIENCE.
'Friend Broadbrim,' said Zephaniah Straitlance to his master, a rich Quaker of the city of Brotherly Love, 'thou canst not eat of that leg of mutton at thy noon-dine table to-day.'

'Wherefore not?' asked the good Quaker.

'Because the dog that appertaineth to that son of Belial, whom the world calleth Lawyer Foxcraft, hath come into thy pantry and stolen it—yes, and he hath eaten it up.'

'Beware, friend Zephaniah, of bearing false witness against thy neighbor. Art thou sure it was friend Foxcraft's domestic animal?'

'Yes, verily, I saw it with my eyes and it was lawyer Foxcraft's dog; even Pilchem.'

'Upon what evil times have we fallen!'
sighed the harmless secretary as he wendered his way to his neighbor's office.

'Friend Gripus,' said he, 'I want to ask thy opinion.'

'I am all attention,' replied the scribe, laying down the pen.

Supposing, friend Foxcraft, that my dog had gone into thy neighbor's pantry, and stolen therefrom a leg of mutton, and I saw him, and could call him by name what ought I to do?'

'Pay for the mutton—nothing can be clearer.'

'Know thou, friend Foxcraft, thy dog,
even the beast men denigrate Pilch'em, hath stolen from my pantry a leg of mutton, of the just value of four shillings and sixpence, which I paid for it in the market this morning.'

'Oh, well, then it is my opinion that I must pay for it,' and the worthy friend turned to depart.

'Tarry yet a little, friend Broadbrim,' cried the lawyer. 'Of a verity I have yet farther to say unto thee. Thou owest me nine shillings—for advice.'

'Then verily, I must pay thee, and it is my opinion, I have touched pitch and been defiled.'

Proving an Alibi.—A clergyman at Cambridge preached a sermon which one of his auditors commended.

'Yes,' said a gentleman to whom it was mentioned, 'it was a good sermon, but he stole it.'

'This was told to the preacher. He resented it, and called on the gentleman to retract what he had said.

...and that it is the interest, as well as the duty of the merchant, to indulge, so far as he can, the reasonable wishes of the clerk. But is the request now made by the clerk a reasonable one? We may be mistaken, but we think it is. They wish, during the summer months, to "knock off" at sundown. They say, and we agree with them, that from "the rising of the sun until the going down of the same," is, in all conscience, amply sufficient to transact all the business that is done during the dull season of summer. They say they want an hour or two for recreation, after the labors of the day; and they further urge, that their employers can grant them this boon without working any injury to their business. They also say, that this indulgence on the part of their employers, would stimulate them to a more cheerful and hearty application to business, during the hours of actual work. We think the arrangement would prove equally beneficial to both parties. But we have said enough. Here is the communication, which we publish at the request of the clerk's themselves:

For the Journal.

Mr. Editor: A communication from the National Intelligencer, was handed to the editor of the Chronicle this week, accompanied by a request, that he would make such remarks as he thought the occasion called for. Owing, we suppose, to an overflow of other and more important matter, his remarks were very few, and, to our humble visions, far from the point. We did not intend to make of it a demand on the Merchants to reform our aggressiveness for we always keep before us, the very important fact, that we are paid for our services, and that, therefore, our employers have a perfect right to demand whatever they please of us, in a business way. Our simple intention was, to present our humble petition to the Merchants of Wilmington, requesting that they would ask no more of us than their interests actually require.

We are inclined to think, from experience, that they could very easily dispense with our services after sundown, during the summer season, which would be to us of immense advantage, in the way of needful recreation.

Will you be so kind as to give this a place in your columns, and whether it succeeds or not, we will be under lasting obligations.

Very respectfully,
MANY CLERKS.

THE MINERAL SPRINGS OF S. C.

Mr. Editor: With my present feelings, I believe it to be my duty to make a few remarks with regard to the above named Springs, that those who may be afflicted in like manner with myself, may have some knowledge of these valuable waters, which, to the public at large, are scarcely known. They are located on the land of John H. Allston, Esq., near the Georgetown and Conway Borough Road, about twenty-eight miles distant from the former, and fifteen from the latter place. I learned while there, that the water has been analyzed by one of the first physicians of Charleston, who pronounced it highly saturated with Iron, Zinc, and Sulphur, three valuable minerals. Two gentlemen of this vicinity visited the Springs some two years since, one of them so completely prostrated with the dyspepsia, that it was with difficulty he could rise there, and after remaining ten days, he was entirely relieved from his disease; the other case, entirely different in its nature, but equally as desperate, was completely rooted out, and the patient is a hearty man to-day. The writer of this, visited the Springs on the 27th of May, and remained there seven days. During that time, his health increased daily; his appetite was good, and his system seemed to strengthen every hour. He has been away from the Springs some twelve days, and up to this time his health is very good. From unavoidable circumstances, he was compelled to leave the Springs sooner than he anticipated, but he has seen enough to convince him that a few weeks spent there would completely banish his complaint. He would only say to those afflicted with the dyspepsia, go and judge for yourselves. The only obstacle to the visit, is the want of proper accommodation for visitors, and it is to be hoped that some provision will be made to solve this objection.

Newspaper Change.

We see by the last number of the Georgia Constitutionalist, that that able democratic journal has changed hands. Mr. Guieu, its veteran editor, during the last thirteen years, has retired from the "sanc-tum." The "new hand at the bellows," is James Gardner, Jr., who, we understand, is a man of ability and attainments. Success to him, say we.

The London Atlas of a late date, has the following paragraph concerning the despatches sent to the British Minister in this country on the Oregon dispute:

"It is no secret in well informed quarters, that despatches have been addressed by Lord Aberdeen to the British Resident at Washington, of the most serious and emphatic description, and that replies thereto are expected by Government with the greatest anxiety—not to say apprehension. Lord Aberdeen's object is understood to be to bring the affair to an immediate settlement. Further delay on the part of America will not, it is believed, be submitted to. Lord Aberdeen will insist on the mouth of the River; the question of peace or war, therefore, hinges on the point whether President Polk will resign the pretensions of the United States to the mouth of that river."

Hopeful Lad.—"What are you beating that boy for?" said a gentleman to a young urchin, "you are too big for him. What has he done?" "I've dropped his knife; I picked it up, and now he wants me to give it him back again; and 'cuss I' vort, he's s'arcy."

A little thieving is a dangerous part. But thieving largely is a noble art! "His wife to rob a hen-roost of a hen." "Thieving largely makes a gentleman." Subdue your passions, and every day life will appear easy.

FAYETTEVILLE, June 14, 1845.

RUINOUS FIRE.

An awful calamity has befallen our town! We have been desolated by that dreadful scourge which seems this year to have let loose upon cities and towns indiscriminately. Fiends in human shape infest every part of the land, blighting in an hour, with the midnight torch, the fruits of years of labor, involving in one common and undistinguished ruin, the riches of the prosperous and the pittance of the poor.

On Friday morning, about half-past 2, a fire was discovered in a warehouse back of a store on Hay street, about 300 feet from the Town house, in the very heart of business. The extreme drought had made every thing that was combustible as dry as tinder, and almost as quick a prey to the devouring element. It spread rapidly up Hay street, till it reached the new brick store of John Waddill, Jr., occupied by Henry Lilly, which was saved, and stopped the fire in that direction. Down Hay street it swept every thing to the corner of Market Square, thence down Green street to Eccle's Bridge, except Mrs. Perry's dwelling just at the bridge; passing round the corner of Green street, Miss Bingham's dwelling and several large brick and frame warehouses were destroyed. From a little above where the fire broke out, it crossed Hay street at three places: first to the brick store of E. J. Lilly and J. D. Starr, next to the Lafayette Hotel, (one of the handsomest and in every respect best hotels in the South,) and again to McArn's buildings. Up the street the fire was stopped after destroying only one building above the Hotel—the store occupied by John Waddill, Jr., and owned by the estate of W. H. Whitehead. Down the street it consumed every thing to the market square, and around Gillespie's street to Franklin Alley, down that Alley to Donaldson street, across the Alley to the warehouses and stables on the South side, and was finally arrested at the Lafayette Hotel Stables, which were saved by prodigious exertions, and which prevented the loss of many other buildings. The Town House in the centre of Market Square, was saved almost against hope, the wind rose and blew the flames against it, but so much depended upon saving it, in stopping the fire, that those who had taken post upon it fought on, though almost despairing, and finally success crowned their efforts. Engine Company No. 1 did invaluable service at this point. On the East side of Green and Gillespie streets, on which the wind set, the most determined spirit was also manifested, and though fire was frequently communicated, it was not allowed to get the mastery. On the South side of Hay street, the dwelling of Mrs. McRae, sen., was saved almost by a miracle, by the determination of a few persons aided by Engine No. 2.

This fire was communicated by sparks in several places, among others on the roof of the Presbyterian Church, but precaution was taken in all quarters to prevent its extension, except where the immediate contact with the flames rendered it impossible.

This disaster is not by any means so extensive or so overwhelming as that which befell our town on the 29th of May, 1831; but it is nevertheless a great calamity. It has destroyed the best part of the business portion of Fayetteville: the best buildings and the best stocks of goods. It has travelled over the same ground as that fire, except that it stopped short of a third of the space then destroyed. As near as we can count there were fifty-three front tenements destroyed, (of which about half were handsome buildings,) besides the valuable warehouses, &c., in the rear and on the back streets. The loss can scarcely be less than three hundred thousand dollars, but estimated by many at $400,000, of which from $125,000 to $150,000 were insured.

We proceed to give a list of the sufferers, as accurately as the confusion will admit of.

There are doubtless inaccuracies and omissions in the above catalogue. In the haste and confusion of its preparation, it could not be otherwise. It will, however, give the best idea we are capable of furnishing of this disaster.

It may not be a miss to add, that the spirit of our people, though humbled, is not broken by this affliction. There are a number of cases in which the losers are not able to bear their losses, and they will have, we trust and believe, the sincere sympathy and prompt aid of their neighbors.

No doubt seems to rest on the mind of any one, that it was the act of an incendiary; for discovery of whom the municipal authorities will leave no effort untried.—Carolinian.

TO THE PATRONS OF THE FAYETTEVILLE OBSERVER.

Through the kind offer of the Editor the North Carolinian, I am enabled to inform the public, that I have taken a tenement in the upper end of the Post Office buildings, Hay street, where I may be found after to-day. I have procured a small Press and a font of Type, from the Rev. Mr. Melver, with which I hope to issue some sort of a paper next week; and as soon as possible I expect to procure a new Press and sufficient type to bring out the "Observer" in its usual form.

My loss by the calamity, which has thus befallen the town, is perhaps, between 7,000 and $8,000; of which $4,250 was insured. The remainder is a serious loss, under which, however, I have not the slightest idea of desponding; but intend, God willing, to rise from these ashes with new energy.

Those indebted to me will, I am sure, feel the importance of even trifling amounts at such a time as the present. And I would beg leave to make the same remark in regard to the many who have lost heavily by this calamity, a list of whom will be furnished by the Carolinian. If ever there was a time when money would be particularly acceptable to every one in Fayetteville, now is emphatically that time.

I have saved my books of accounts, with which I will be enabled to settle with all who may wish to avail themselves of the occasion.

A few books, blank books, knives, pens, &c., saved, will be opened in the Post Office building.

Two story dwelling owned by Miss M. Bingham, and occupied by herself and A. Alden, as dwellings. Miss B's loss probably 3000; insured for 1,000; Mr. Alden lost part of his furniture.

There are doubtless inaccuracies and omissions in the above catalogue. In the haste and confusion of its preparation, it could not be otherwise. It will, however, give the best idea we are capable of furnishing of this disaster.

It may not be a miss to add, that the spirit of our people, though humbled, is not broken by this affliction. There are a number of cases in which the losers are not able to bear their losses, and they will have, we trust and believe, the sincere sympathy and prompt aid of their neighbors.

No doubt seems to rest on the mind of any one, that it was the act of an incendiary; for discovery of whom the municipal authorities will leave no effort untried.—Carolinian.

From the Fayetteville North Carolinian.

TO THE PATRONS OF THE FAYETTEVILLE OBSERVER.

Through the kind offer of the Editor the North Carolinian, I am enabled to inform the public, that I have taken a tenement in the upper end of the Post Office buildings, Hay street, where I may be found after to-day. I have procured a small Press and a font of Type, from the Rev. Mr. Melver, with which I hope to issue some sort of a paper next week; and as soon as possible I expect to procure a new Press and sufficient type to bring out the "Observer" in its usual form.

My loss by the calamity, which has thus befallen the town, is perhaps, between 7,000 and $8,000; of which $4,250 was insured. The remainder is a serious loss, under which, however, I have not the slightest idea of desponding; but intend, God willing, to rise from these ashes with new energy.

Those indebted to me will, I am sure, feel the importance of even trifling amounts at such a time as the present. And I would beg leave to make the same remark in regard to the many who have lost heavily by this calamity, a list of whom will be furnished by the Carolinian. If ever there was a time when money would be particularly acceptable to every one in Fayetteville, now is emphatically that time.

I have saved my books of accounts, with which I will be enabled to settle with all who may wish to avail themselves of the occasion.

A few books, blank books, knives, pens, &c., saved, will be opened in the Post Office building.

THE QUILTING.
Twas down at Major Parsons' house,
The gals they had a quiltin'
Just for to show their handsome looks
And have a little jittin'!

Yankee lassies are the U "niversal airt bewitchin'".
They're good and true and handsome too,
In parlor and in kitchen!

There was Deacon Jones' darter Sal,
Squire Wheeler's darter Mary,
And General Carver's youngest gal
That looks just like a fairy!

There was Lucy White and Martha Brown,
And Parsons' darter Betty, Femino Pinkhorn, Prudence Short,
And Major Downing's Hetty!

But if there was a handsome gal,
To make a fellow's heart right,
I guess it was by all accounts,
Miss Carolina Cartwright!

Wall, while we were a whirlin' plate
And playin' hunt the slipper,
Jerusha Parsons' went to git
Some cider in a dipper!

But just as she had left the room
And got into the entry,
She gave a scream and stood stock still,
Just like a frozen sentry!

We all ran out, and there, I swear,
Both huglin' like creation,
Miss Cartwright and Sam Jones we saw,
A kissin' like tarnation.

O, such a laugh, as we set up,
You never heard a finer,
Says I, "I reckon kissin's cheap,
Don't you, Miss Carolina?"

I wish you'd saw Miss Cartwright blush,
Just like as if she'd painted,
She said—she had the cider—and In Sammie's arms she fainted!

And now, young gals, I'd say to you,
When you go to a frolic,
Don't let your fellows kiss and hug,
Unless—you have the cholice!

TO SHINGLE GETTERS.
THE undersigned has been appointed agent for selling the Patent Right to use Kinney's Shingle Machine, in the counties of Halifax, Nash, Johnston, Cumberland, Richmond, and all the counties lying east and south of these, in the State of North Carolina, except the county of Edgecombe, the right of which, has been sold to another. He has also received the agency for the whole State of South Carolina. He is authorized to sell to individuals or to companies, for a single right, the right for a county, or for all that part of North Carolina mentioned in one sale, and likewise in the same way for the districts in South Carolina.
He has made an arrangement with Mr. U. Wells, of Petersburg, Va., to make the Machine to order, to be delivered at any Depot on the Wilmington and Raleigh Rail Road, the freight to be paid by the buyer, but he will procure its delivery without charge for his trouble. This Machine is of simple construction, and easy to be kept in order; and can be used either by hand, horse, water, or steam power. Two good hands can easily make from the blocks, from 4 to 5000 Shingles per day, ready joined, and nearly as smooth as if planed, and any width desired, from 4 to 10 inches. They could also easily move the machine from place to place, and be convenient to the timber. The cost of the machine, ready made, will be $50. The price of the right to use it, will vary according to the extent of the purchase. He will have a machine here in a few days, as a sample, and invite the public to call and see it operate.
He will endeavor to obtain a suitable person to carry a Machine into all of these counties, to show its value.

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE.
IT may truly be said, that no one has ever been so successful in compounding a medicine, which has done so much to relieve the human family, to rob disease of its terrors, and restore the Invalid to Health and comfort, as the Inventor and Proprietor of that most deserved popular family medicine, Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry. And none have been so generally patronized by the Profession and others, both in this country and in Europe, nor has there ever been so great an effort in the short space of six or seven years, to deceive the credulous and unthinking, by putting up Nostums of various kinds, by various individuals, affixing the name of Wild Cherry, and as much of the name of the original preparation as will screen them from the lash of the law, and one of the impostors who puts out the common paregoric of the shops and calls it the Balsam of Wild Cherry, has had the impudence to caution the public against the original preparation, Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, which is doing so much good in the world.
And whereas none but the original and only genuine article as prepared by Dr. Swayne, which is the only one compounded by a regular Physician, and arose from many years' close attention to the practice of the profession, and which led to this great discovery. Thousands and tens of thousands of the best testimonials of the unparalleled success of Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry for the cure of consumption, coughs, colds, spitting blood, liver complaint, tickling or rising in the throat, nervous debility, weakness of voice, palpitation or disease of the heart, pain in the side or breast, broken constitution from various causes, the abuse of calomel, &c., bronchitis, asthma, whooping cough, &c., were declared to the world years before any other preparation of Wild Cherry came out. The most skeptical may satisfy themselves as to the truth of the above, by a little enquiry in Philadelphia. The genuine article is prepared only by Dr. Swayne, whose office has been removed to N. W. corner of 5th and Race streets, Philad'a. The Balsam and other spurious articles of Wild Cherry has been sold out, and the proprietors are obliged to resort to falsehood and stratagem to make their own out of it. The genuine article is put up in plain style in square bottles covered with a blue wrapper, with a yellow label with the proprietor's signature attached. To get the genuine in Wilmington, you must go to the only appointed agent,
WM. SHAW.
The public are requested to remember that it is Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, that has and is repeatedly performing such marvellous cures of diseases which have baffled the skill of the profession and set at defiance the whole catalogue of Patent Medicines, which are daily pulled through the organs of the press. Therefore ask for Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry, and purchase no other.

Save your Corn Cobs and Shucks.
TO THE PLANTERS AND MILLERS OF NORTH CAROLINA.
THE undersigned has obtained Letters Patent, to enable common Mill Stones (or rocks) now in use, to grind CORN, COB and SHUCK, into meal, for Horses, Mules, Cattle, Hogs, &c., thereby saving more than one third of a crop, which is an important item with planters. The machinery used for the above purpose is simple and durable, and cannot, with fair means, get out of order. It will last as long as the Stones last, with an expense of 50 cents every five years. To enable the common Mill Stones, to grind ear corn into meal, requires no new buildings or extra power. It can also be applied to Horse Mills, Thrashing Machines, Gins, or any given power known. The same Mill will grind one-third more of Corn Meal by the introduction of this Machinery, and can be changed from grinding Corn and Cob, to grinding Corn Meal in the space of thirty seconds. Corn alone, when fed to stock, is said to be the most practical and scientific Planters, constituting in its effects, producing, founders, cholera and various other malarious diseases which are incident to stock. Grinding cobs with the Corn, makes a food congenial with their nature, and cannot produce any of the serious results above mentioned. Stock, when fed on Corn exclusively, are deprived of the benefits of distention (so necessary to the proper health of animals), by their being unable to eat a sufficient bulk to produce distention before the animal becomes gorged. Cobs ground with the corn, produce the necessary distention, without any danger of diseases arising from overeating. Corn and cob meal is improved by scalding, and still more by boiling, and yet more by a partial fermentation. All the preparations facilitate digestion for Hogs. But Horses and Mules will not eat fermented food, consequently they will require it dry or partially wet with cold water. Horses, Mules and Oxen, when fed with unground food, void much in undigested state, which is of course lost for all beneficial purposes. Read the subjoined certificate.
The undersigned can be addressed at Raleigh, and all calls will be attended to punctually and with despatch by himself or Agent.
W. F. COLLINS,
26-1y.

CERTIFICATE.
Having been solicited by Maj. Collins to have my Mill adjusted to grind Corn in the Ear and Shuck, I consented that he should do so as an experiment; and I am able to say that it grinds Corn in the Shuck at the rate of 30 bushels per hour; and the dressing of the stones is so improved, that it grinds shelled Corn more than twice as fast as before, and by my watch, at the rate of 15 bushels per hour, and the meal finer than usual. I deem it a valuable improvement, and shall purchase the right to use it, as it will afford me speedy way of feeding my horses and cattle, and save much trouble.

THE North Carolina Standard.
W. W. HOLDEN, Editor and Proprietor.
WHEN the undersigned took charge of the Standard, on the 1st of June, 1843, its list numbered about one thousand subscribers. Since that time this number has considerably increased, but it is still insufficient to support such a paper as the democracy of the State desire to have at the seat of government. All the friends of the paper, with whom the undersigned has conversed and with whom the subject, think this the list may be increased to at least four thousand. Can not this be accomplished? The undersigned respectfully submits whether, out of 40,000 democratic voters in North Carolina, there cannot be obtained for the Central Journal a permanent circulation of four thousand copies.
It is needless, perhaps, to say that the Standard will be constantly devoted to the support and promulgation of democratic principles, and that its Editor will labor, month by month, and year by year, with whatever abilities he may possess, to destroy the odious and dangerous doctrines of the Federal party. And it may not be improper to state here, that at the late meeting of the Democratic State Central Committee for North Carolina, a resolution was passed, heartily and entirely approving of the course of the Standard since it has been under the control of the undersigned, and recommending to the party throughout the State the importance of increasing its circulation. The Standard will continue to give attention as heretofore, to miscellaneous reading, and to the general news of the day; and no efforts nor pains will be spared to render it a useful and interesting sheet. To those who, at the commencement of his labors, gave to the undersigned a generous support and confidence; and who continue to cheer him by their patronage and friendship—and indeed to the whole democratic party of the State—he tenders his sincere thanks.
Terms of the Standard.—For a single copy, three dollars per annum in advance. One copy for two years, or two copies for one year, for five dollars, in advance. For four copies ten dollars; for ten copies twenty dollars—in advance. Any person procuring and forwarding five subscribers with the cash ($15) will be entitled to the paper for one year free of charge. WM. W. HOLDEN.

BEING desirous of moving to the West, I offer for sale my plantation on Topsail Sound, (called Oakley), 12 miles and a half from Wilmington; containing four hundred acres, of which, about three hundred and twenty is cleared, the balance heavily timbered, and in point of fertility, are equal, if not superior to any lands on the Sound, and particularly adapted to Corn and Ground Peas. The improvements on this place, are nearly all new, the dwelling House having recently undergone a thorough repair. New Barn, Stables, Wagon House, and all necessary out-buildings. The dwelling House is situated on a high bluff, overlooking the ocean, with a fine inlet in front, and as regards beauty, health, and convenience to the best Fish and Oysters, is not surpassed by any other residence on the coast. Further description would be unnecessary as it is presumed that those wishing to purchase would first view the premises. I am determined on selling, and a bargain may be had. M. C. NIXON.
